Two Management students have received Human Resource scholarships.

Andrew Jimeno, past president of SHRM at Texas State and December 2009 graduate, received a $2,500 scholarship from the SHRM Foundation. Only ten undergraduate scholarships of this type were awarded worldwide. Criteria included SHRM student chapter involvement, commitment to the HR profession, academic achievement, additional leadership/service activities, and work experience. Andrew is now employed as HR Coordinator for T3 in Austin, Texas.

Ashley Helfinstine, current president of SHRM at Texas State, has been awarded a $2,000 Zimmerman undergraduate scholarship from the Austin Human Resource Management Association. Criteria for this scholarship included scholastic achievement, community service, human resource involvement, and a written essay outlining career goals in human resource management.

Congratulations to our two scholarship winners!

Fashion Merchandising Career Forum

Bobbie Moore, a Senior Lecturer in the Fashion Merchandising Department, will be hosting a regional career forum for students on Thursday, March 25th in the LBJ Student Center. Retailers are interested in speaking to students who might be interested in entering their management training programs.

Cost: $10 - Includes a breakfast, lunch, and a fashion show ticket.
