Resource of the Month: The Students Who Are Parents Group

Any currently enrolled undergraduate or graduate student can join the Students Who Are Parents group at Texas State. The group has been organized to help student parents meet each other, share their experiences, and excel in their academic careers. The Office of Retention Management and Planning organizes lunches and socials for student parent networking. Members of the group also get notifications about workshops held on campus that cover such relevant topics as time management, budgeting, nutrition, and valuable resources on campus. To find this and more information on the group check out their website at:

Have Questions?

Our offices are open! Feel free to give us a call with any questions or to make an advising appointment.
Because “the study of philosophy deals with the basic concepts of natural experience, knowledge, and morality,” students gain skills that are applicable to a wide variety of careers. These skills include critical and analytical thinking, deductive reasoning, argumentation, and problem solving. Possible career paths include attorney or legal assistant, medical advisor, government employee, diplomat, researcher, lobbyist, and human rights activist.

Texas State offers a Bachelor of Arts degree in Philosophy. Graduating seniors are required to submit a portfolio of their work in the major and participate in an exit interview. A Philosophy minor is also available to students interested in the discipline.

For this and more information, visit the Department of Philosophy website http://www.txstate.edu/philosophy/ and additional information can be found at the undergraduate catalog: http://www.txstate.edu/curriculumservices/catalogs/undergraduate/catalogs.html
