A Although you have had three or more years of prior full-time service as an assistant professor or above in other institutions of higher education, by acceptance of this contract you agree to a maximum probationary period of three years at Texas State, beginning September 1, 2016. Your advancement to tenure will be reviewed no later than the 2018-2019 academic year. At the end of the academic year in which you go up for tenure, you will be notified if tenure is approved for subsequent contracts. If tenure is denied at the end of the 2018-2019 academic year, the subsequent contract will be the final contract.

B Since you have been credited with two years of prior full-time service as an assistant professor or above in other institutions of higher education, by acceptance of this contract you agree to a maximum probationary period of four years at Texas State, beginning September 1, 2016. Your advancement to tenure will be reviewed no later than the 2019-2020 academic year. At the end of the academic year in which you go up for tenure, you will be notified if tenure is approved for subsequent contracts. If tenure is denied at the end of the 2019-2020 academic year, the subsequent contract will be the final contract.

C Since you have been credited with one year of prior full-time service as an assistant professor or above in other institutions of higher education, by acceptance of this contract you agree to a maximum probationary period of five years at Texas State beginning September 1, 2016. Your advancement to tenure will be reviewed no later than the 2020-2021 academic year. At the end of the academic year in which you go up for tenure, you will be notified if tenure is approved for subsequent contracts. If tenure is denied at the end of the 2020-2021 academic year, the subsequent contract will be the final contract.

D Since you have been credited with no prior full-time service in an institution of higher education, by acceptance of this contract you agree to a maximum probationary period of six years at Texas State, beginning September 1, 2016. Your advancement to tenure will be reviewed no later than the 2021-2022 academic year. At the end of the academic year in which you go up for tenure, you will be notified if tenure is approved for subsequent contracts. If tenure is denied at the end of the 2021-2022 academic year, the subsequent contract will be the final contract.
