CONSENT FORM
Release of Information

Purpose: As a participant in the Texas State Employee Wellness Program, you are probably aware that we are collecting many different forms of data to provide you with feedback and evaluate our program. The purpose of this consent form is to provide you with information so that you can make a choice as to whether the data that we collect can be used for research, as well. This research will help in measuring the feasibility and overall effectiveness of a wellness program in a university setting. The primary researchers are Dr. Janet Bezner, Dr. Sylvia Crixell, and Dr. Lisa Lloyd, all of Texas State University. If you have any questions, Dr. Lisa Lloyd can be contacted via email at LisaLloyd@txstate.edu or by phone at 512-245-8358.

Benefits: The data will be used to inform future interventions about how to deliver an effective worksite wellness program in a university setting, including at Texas State University. If we can show that a worksite wellness program offered at a university setting is cost-effective, then it is our expectation that more universities will adopt a similar model and thereby enhance the lives of their employees. You can help us with this effort by allowing us to compile your data in our research.

Risks and Confidentiality: The only risk of allowing us to use your data for research is a small chance of breach of confidentiality. This is unlikely because only the faculty researchers and research associates assisting with the delivery of the Texas State Employee Wellness Program will have access to your personal health appraisal, health assessments, and participation (e.g., attendance at group exercise classes and education workshops). Furthermore, your responses to program improvement surveys will be collected anonymously. All data will be kept in a locked cabinet in Dr. Lloyd's office for a maximum of five years and, at that time, the files will be destroyed. You will also receive copies of the results from your personal health appraisal and any wellness assessment that you participate in but no one associated with Texas State management or Human Resources will see your data. The results of this research will likely be presented at academic conferences and may be published in an academic journal. These results will only be reported as averages for large groups of people. Your name will never be included and your individual results or scores will never be revealed to anyone.

Incentives: The program is free to all Texas State employees; however, there is no incentive for releasing your data for purposes of research.

Rights: This form provides you with information so that you can make a decision as to whether the data from your personal health appraisal, fitness assessments, and attendance records, and responses to program quality and effectiveness via focus groups and/or surveys can be used for research. However, you do not have to release your data in order to participate in the Texas State Employee Wellness Program. Participation in this research project is voluntary and you may withdraw from the program at any time. Additionally, you can withdraw your data from the study at any time and for any reason. There will be no negative consequences from Texas State if you choose to withdraw from the study or withdraw your data from the study.

IRB: This request to use your results for research has been approval by the Texas State University’s Institutional Review Board (IRB) as IRB reference number #CON2015T920. For questions regarding the approval process or your rights under the protection of the IRB, please call Dr. Jon Lasser at 245-3413 (lasser@txstate.edu) or Ms. Becky Northcutt at 245-2102 (sn10@txstate.edu).

Signatures: Your signature below as well as the inclusion of your legibly printed name indicates your willingness to release your results for research. You will be provided a duplicate copy of this form, which you should keep for your personal records. A summary of the findings will be provided to you upon request and completion of the study.
