ABOUT THE PROGRAM:
June 5, 2017 - July 28, 2017

The program focuses on understanding the political and urban design components of sustainable transportation systems. The Netherlands, with its connected network of bicycle facilities linked to an extensive rail network, is a world leader in administering these systems. We will build a deep understanding of these systems through a program designed to immerse students in direct conversations with local infrastructure planners and administrators. Students will also explore the system through a series of extensive bicycle, transit, and walking tours throughout the Netherlands.
