The CYD Summit 2017 will have daily activities, workshops, and inspirational keynote speakers all over campus. There are multiple transitions throughout the day, so bringing comfortable shoes and clothing is highly advised.

There will be a special Etiquette Dinner which is immediately followed by a dance. In the past, youth and adults have dressed up in formal or business casual clothing, but please note this is a personal choice. Youth should not feel as though they need to buy a new outfit to wear this night; however, most youth have enjoyed dressing up for this special event.

All participants should bring the following:

- Twin size sheets and/or sleeping bag
- Pillow
- Extra blanket (if you tend to get cold at night)
- Toiletries (toothbrush, toothpaste, soap/body wash, shampoo, conditioner, brush, comb, etc.)
- Face and body towel
- Shower shoes
- Business casual outfit for the Etiquette Dinner
- At least two appropriate outfits per day
  - PLEASE NOTE: Females should not wear shirts that show their chests or mid drifts and males should not wear baggy pants.

Please leave all valuable items such as expensive jewelry, iPod/iPads, family heirlooms, etc. at home. Texas State University is not responsible for lost items.

It is important to note that youth should bring whatever will make them comfortable sleeping in a new place at night. The University does not supply sheets, pillows, or towels for the rooms, so please ensure youth come with these items in hand. It is also important to talk to YACs about what is appropriate attire, as participants and staff are representing CYD sites, Texas State University, and the state.
