

Some readers see this part of your email after the subject line in the inbox. Write something brief and catchy, compelling them to open the email.

Teachers Helping Teachers

In response to the needs of our fellow teachers, Texas geography educators across the state are organizing a school materials drive to help teachers affected by Harvey.

For those teachers affected by Hurricane Harvey, as you are able to get back into your classrooms, please let us know what materials you need.

For those teachers who want to assist, please let us know what materials you have to donate.

As we continue to assess and respond to the need, we will provide additional information. In the meantime, please let us know how you can help or how we can help you at the link below.

**Materials/Supplies Drive**

---

TAGE Programming

At this time, we expect to have only minor changes to our workshop schedule and resources offerings.

If you have requested the Giant Map, there are currently shipping delays in many areas of the state. If you are in one of the affected areas, we will contact you to reschedule if necessary.

For upcoming workshops in the affected areas, we will also contact the local workshop organizer and reschedule at your convenience.

If you have questions, please contact Maggie Hutchins at mhutchins@txstate.edu.

---

Teaching Resources

We created an area on the TAGE website with recommended resources to help teach about natural hazards. We also continue to post resources daily to our social media accounts via Facebook and Twitter.

If you have resources to share, please email them to Maggie at mhutchins@txstate.edu.

-Coming soon.

Copyright © 2017. All Rights Reserved.

Texas Alliance for Geographic Education | Texas State University | 512.245.3827

E-mail | Website