INTERSECTIONS:
NEW PERSPECTIVES IN TEXAS PUBLIC HISTORY

Volume 1  Spring 2012  Number 1

Editor’s Note  3

The Commissioner’s Cursed Treasure  4
Wendy Thompson

The Empty Stairs:
The Lost History of East Austin  12
Sharon Hill

Ballet Folklórico:
Celebrating Heritage and Creating Identity through Dance  19
Esther Rivera

The Seat of Future Empire:
Uncovering the Origins of Austin’s Exceptionalism  27
Teri E. Flack

The Wake of Integration:
Loss of a School and the Demise of a Community  38
Sarah Marshall

“Somebody Around Here Wants to Start a Fire”:
The O. Henry Honeymoon Cottage Controversy  48
Bonnie Tipton Wilson

Website Reviews  56

© 2012 Texas State University-San Marcos, Center for Texas Public History.
INTERSECTIONS:
NEW PERSPECTIVES IN TEXAS PUBLIC HISTORY

Editorial Staff

Bonnie Tipton Wilson
Sarah Marshall
Teri E. Flack
Wendy Thompson
Sharon Hill
Esther Rivera
Managing Editor
Associate Editor
Associate Editor
Website Review Editor
Design Coordinator
Design Coordinator

Acknowledgements

We gratefully acknowledge Chris Rivera for the cover design. We also offer our thanks to Dan K. Utley for his counsel and assistance throughout this project. We appreciate the opportunity afforded us by Dr. Lynn Denton, Director of the Center for Texas Public History, and Dr. Mary C. Brennan, Chair, Department of History, to develop this journal.

Wendy Thompson is especially grateful to the following people at the Texas General Land Office – Mark Lambert, Susan Dorsey, and Lauren Goodley – for their knowledge and guidance throughout this project.

Sharon Hill would like to thank the staff of the Austin History Center for their help in locating information for this article. Eva Lindsey also contributed her Oral History to this project as a native Austinite. Terri Meyers contributed her professional knowledge in historic preservation. She would also like to thank her assistants, Max and Jonathan Hill. Lastly, Sharon would like to thank Dan K. Utley for his guidance.

Esther Rivera would like to thank Gloria Espitia at the Austin History Center for helping her find the information she needed for her research and for giving her a wealth of information about the Mexican American community in Austin. Also, she would like to thank Michael Rowland, Rodolfo Mendez, and Michael Carmona for agreeing to speak with her and providing her with information to write this article.

Teri E. Flack is grateful for the assistance of the staff of the Briscoe Center for American History and the Texas General Land Office for their assistance in the preparation of this article. She also would like to thank Dan K. Utley for his guidance and suggestions that kept her focused.

Sarah Marshall would like to thank Eva Lindsey for her first-hand accounts of Austin's integration efforts in public schools.

Bonnie Tipton Wilson wishes to thank Dan K. Utley and Sarah Marshall for reading and critiquing this article. Further, she would like to acknowledge Ashley Adair of the Austin History Center for her assistance in helping the author uncover this story.