Congratulations: Dr. Rob Konopaske

Dr. Rob Konopaske was part of an international team of researchers whose empirical research study entitled: “Social Structures and Personal Values that Predict E-Mail Use: An International Comparative Study” was published in the Journal of Global Information Management earlier this summer. Drawing from cross-cultural and psychology research about personal values and social structures, the study used survey data collected from 576 managers from the United States, Canada, Nigeria and the Caribbean to analyze factors that predict managerial e-mail use and decision making.

Congratulations, Dr. Konopaske!
We are proud to have you representing the Department of Management.

Management Alumni News

Chris Molho, a Texas State University alum, has shown true success in the world of management. At the age of 26, Molho graduated with a degree in management. Molho was recently promoted to General Manager of the Lakeland Square Mall in Lakeland, FL. He is the youngest GM in a company that has 200+ malls. This business has continued to thrive despite the economic downturn. An article was published in The Ledger highlighting the success of Lakeland Square Mall under Molho’s management:

Chris credited many of his former professors, as well as his experience serving as President of Pi Kappa Phi fraternity, with helping prepare him for management success. Congratulations, Chris! It is always great to hear a success story from one of our alumni.
