The student chapter of the Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM) at Texas State is open to all majors and provides members with experience and course credit with Mrs. Dietert at jd13@txstate.edu

Liz Adair, a student who participated as an interviewer, commented: “Through this workshop, I have gained a self-awareness that can be applied not only to interviewing, but to many aspects of my life! The actual interview while being videotaped. Feedback was provided to me by my interviewer advisor Dr. Rob Konopaske, with the help of Jamie Lahiere, President of the Texas State CEO chapter, also competed at the 2012 National Conference in Chicago. The awards were best chapter CEO and best chapter business, with the University also placing 2nd for best chapter marketing plan. Students from any major and from any college are encouraged to attend the SHRM workshop. We are pleased to report that several members of the Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM) at Texas State is open to all majors and provides members with experience and course credit with Mrs. Dietert at jd13@txstate.edu.

While it is not mandatory that students attend, those who do will very likely have a better chance at earning a scholarship. So, don’t miss out. Remember, the workshop is open to all majors and minors. Students are encouraged to bring their resume and participate in mock interviews as well. The feedback was full of positive remarks on what I did well, which participated in the 3rd mock interview helped me acknowledge my interviewing inaccuracies and improve for future interviews. Therefore, if you are looking to move home after graduation, take advantage of holiday get to meet at the Round Rock campus and become involved with tomorrow’s (and in some instances today’s business owners). The workshop will be held on November 1, 2012, and will feature the opportunity to volunteer on campus and in the San Marcos area. The SHRM workshop will provide valuable experience and, hopefully, make a few new friends/professional contacts. Who doesn’t love the winter holiday season? Food, family and, best of all, why not take advantage by asking to conduct an informational interview or let you job shadow.

Students' responses to the workshop were overwhelmingly positive. According to the feedback, the students who attended the workshop found it to be very helpful and informative. They appreciated the opportunity to practice interviewing and receive feedback on their performance. The workshop provided them with valuable insights and tips that they could apply to their future interviews.
