Workshop on Publishing Manuscripts

Jessica Bishop

Texas State University
1:00 pm in DERR 338
September 27, 2019

Seminar Description: I will facilitate a conversation geared for students about the publication process with a particular focus on publishing dissertation-based manuscripts. This will be an interactive session with personal examples and advice from faculty. Come ready with questions as we will have a dedicated time for Q&A.

Dr Bishop completed her PhD in mathematics education at the University of Texas. Before joining the faculty at Texas State University in the Fall of 2016, Jessica was a faculty member at San Diego State University and the University of Georgia. She also taught high school mathematics in Dallas for four years. Jessica has taught a wide range of university courses, but her primary work has been with practicing and prospective mathematics teachers to help equip them to better attend to and support their students' mathematical thinking. Jessica's research interests are concentrated in two areas: research on classroom discourse and research investigating children's mathematical thinking.
