Delve into the Data: Resources for Texas State Institutional Data

Are you struggling to find the data needed to answer your strategic planning questions? Or, are you just curious about how Texas State has changed over the years? The Office of Institutional Research is your source of data for academic planning and assessment, state reporting, administrative survey results, and more. Join us for this exciting, hands-on workshop where you will:

• Discover the wealth of information about Texas State available to you on-line

• Explore existing reports produced by the Office of Institutional Research

• Learn how to use the IR Self-Service Tools to obtain data on students, courses, retention, graduation, faculty, staff, and more

• Venture into the world of the new CatStats web-service

• Examine on-line tools allowing you to compare Texas State to other institutions

The only things you need are experience with a web browser and a curious mind. All participants will leave knowing a little more about the University and where to go to find the data to make informed decisions.

To register, visit: ibis.sap.txstate.edu