

Public Lecture

Distance language learning
and new technologies:

Research and teaching at the UK Open University

3:00 P. M

March 26, 2009

Centennial Hall G02

Jim Coleman, Open University, UK

Jim Coleman is Professor of Language Learning and Teaching at the Open University in the United Kingdom. His research embraces many aspects of language learning, including new technologies and study abroad.

The UK's Open University is the world's longest established distance-teaching university, celebrating its 40th year in 2009. The Open University enrolls 200,000 students a year (8,000 in foreign languages).